BOOK DISCUSSION MEET MOVED TO MARCH 22

The Fanwood Book Discussion Group will not meet on Feb. 22nd as anticipated. The discussion of Anne Tyler's "Dinner at the Homesick Restaurant" has been moved to Tuesday, March 22nd, 7:30 p.m. in the Fanwood Memorial Library. This should give everyone ample time to aquire and read the book (due out in paperback on March 1st).

Mayor Larry Newcomb rides shotgun with P.W. snow crew

Newcomb's Notes

Just as the snow storm altered the lives of all of our citizens, the Blizzard of '83 effected the Township in many ways besides the necessity of plowing the snow, from postponed meetings dates to the 1983 budget.

Last month we announced plans to introduce the Townshp's 1983 budget at the our meeting on Feb. 15. That did not happen, in part because of the storm, and in part because of changes in the laws effecting municipal budgets enacted last month.

Your Council had scheduled a special meeting to discuss those changes in the law last Saturday morning. Obviously that meeting had to be cancelled. We will be holding other sessions to discuss those changes and infact we discussed some of those changes Tuesday night after the regular council session.

These changes in the law include a provision that would allow Coun-

N.J. blames Fanwood for bridge repair delay

by Liz Gautier

Weblo Cub Pack 277 from McGinn School opened the Fanwood council meeting with the Pledge of Allegiance on February 9 to an audience of two. The scouts, accompanied by Scoutmaster Carl Anderson and Den Chief, Eagle Scout Tim Peeney, told Mayor Ted Trumpp and council about some of the activities they had undertaken as projects. Mayor Trumpp commended the boys for their service to the community.

Councilman Dave Charzewski announced that Joel Whitaker was elected chairman of the Planning Board and Robert Thayer elected vice chairman. Thayer was also appointed Planning Board liaison to the Environmental Commission.

Councilman Doug Clausen read a memo to the Mayor and council from Police Chief Anthony Parenti which detailed a conversation Parenti had with the Union County engineer regarding the condition of the Terrill Road bridge. In the engineer's opinion, the bridge has deteriorated to the point where it should be closed.

According to the memo, the New Jersey Department of Transportation is blaming the Fanwood government for pro-

The subject is lions... and roses on Waldon Road

Artist Peter Ure got inspired while shoveling snow over the weekend and sculpted the two lions on either side of the driveway at his home on 20 Waldon Road in Fanwood. In addition, Peter made a snow rose and even tried to tint it pink, but the warm weather melted the coloring through the snow.

Fan. Planning Board starts hearings on firehouse - again

Approximately 35 people attended a lengthy public hearing for the proposed Fanwood firehouse on Monday night's Planning Board meeting in the Community House. Borough Attorney Frank Blatz started the proceedings by calling Richard Berry, architect for the project, to the witness stand.

Robert Kraus, attorney for the Watson Road residents who filed an appeal to the Planning Board's approval of the Site Plan and Conditional Use application in December, 1981, cross examined Berry, as did former Councilwoman
