Dr. Gajewski's Students To Play Carnegie Hall

Pianists Allen and Peter Yu, eighth graders at the Edison Intermediate School in Westfield, have been named co-winners of the Alex Chiappinelli Memorial Etude Competition. Paul Kolb of Bridgewater, 10, specializing in the works of the 18th-century Italian master Pier Domenico Paradis, has prevailed in another competition category. All are students of Dr. Ferdinand Gajewski of Westfield.

According to a spokesman of the Piano Teachers Society of America, sponsor of these events, the Chiappinelli Competition, won by the Yu brothers, represents "as challenging a hurdle as any young pianist may face: contestants must negotiate works from the most intractable of pianistic genres." The Yus have studied most of Chopin's 27 etudes, the cornerstone of this repertoire. They are the youngest contestants ever to receive the Chiappinelli prize and the first co-winners, the spokesman said.

Allen Yu is an accomplished cellist as well as pianist and serves as second chair in the New Jersey Youth Symphony, to which he was admitted before reaching mandatory high school status. Peter Yu, also a violinist, is associate concertmaster of the same orchestra. Both brothers have received distinctions at the state level in mathematics and science and are the recipients of innumerable musical awards and honors. They have been sent congratulatory letters by Governor Christine Todd Whitman and other celebrities.

Paul Kolb is a musician, scholar and athlete. His many awards in swimming include, recently, a second place in the United States Eastern Region YMCA Championships in the 100-yard butterfly. He also excels as well in golf, tennis and karate, according to Dr. Gajewski.

The three competition winners will play at a gala concert in Weill Recital Hall at Carnegie Hall in June.

Dr. Gajewski teaches a private class in town. He studied in France with Nada Boulanger, is a graduate of the Juillard School of Music and holds the doctorate in music from Harvard University. Dr. Gajewski has an extensive bibliography of scholarly writings which includes a seminal book on Chopin's compositional manuscripts.
